LOOKING FORWARD TO SKI SEASON are Sunday River's Wende Gray, Mt. Abram's Jean Anton, Ski Maine Association Executive Director Karen Brace and Association President Gwendy Lauritzen, of Sugarloaf. The four were among the ski industry executives at last week's press conference at Lost Valley kicking off the "Ski Maine" promotional campaign.

State spending $120,000 on 'Ski Maine' campaign

The State Development Office will spend $120,000 this winter to promote Maine skiing, especially in eastern Massachusetts. The target market is the affluent young professional families in the Boston area.

Jim Mackey, advertising supervisor with the Portland firm (The Marketing Group) producing the ad campaign, told a press conference last week the campaign will include print ads, TV spots, and billboards around Boston. The motto of the ads will be "Ski Down Maine—The reasons keep piling up." The ads will stress the message that Maine offers challenging skiing, short lift lines, low prices and is easy to get to.

Don Bumpus, of the State Development Office, told the press conference—arranged by the Ski Maine Association—this year's advertising budget contrasts with the $20,000 allocated for winter tourism promotion just a few years ago. "Those days are gone, fortunately," he said.

The Ski Maine Association introduced its new executive director to the press, at the conference, held at Lost Valley, in Auburn. (The association is composed of eight of the state's ski areas.)

Executive director Karen Brace, who operates from a new association office in Camden, told the press that Maine ski areas sold 100,000 more lift tickets last season than the year before, for an increase of 21 percent.

This coming season, the association is looking for another record-breaking year, as the state's ski areas improved their slopes by adding over $10 million in capital improvements during the off-season.

Ms. Brace pointed out that the ski industry is providing a new major source of employment for the state's workforce.

Last year, the combined payrolls of the state's ski areas were up 38 percent, she said.

Chamber of Commerce sponsoring candidates' forum next Tuesday

Incumbent Jeff Mills, Democrat, and challenger Tom Winsor, Republican, candidates for the District 49 seat in Maine's House of Representatives, are scheduled to be present at the Telstar lecture hall at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 21, to inform interested voters of their stance on the issues. Each of the candidates will be asked to speak followed by an open question period.

Representatives from both sides of the referendum concerning telephone measured-service are also invited to speak on their stands. Any questions of the audience will then be discussed.

This is a great opportunity for voters in get information to aid in decisions when they cast ballots on Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The event is being sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Septic problems in W'stock

The Woodstock selectmen spent Tuesday night grappling with problems involving septic systems.

At the new Lake Christopher subdivision, the owner of Lot 11 is upset because a neighbor's septic system is partially on his property—due to a previous easement—and the state will only allow one system on a 20,000-square-foot lot. Thus, he has an unbuildable lot, unless he can get a variance to place a second septic system on the lot. The selectmen, however, don't like the idea of seeing variances for brand-new houselots.

Other lot owners at Lake Christopher have complained to the selectmen because Lot 12, which they thought was to remain as a septic system reserve, has been sold as a houselot.

The selectmen also discussed what alternatives might be available for the septic sludge from homes in town. Currently it is mostly trucked to Auburn. The selectmen would like to see a large landowner in town agree to using his fields for spreading. But, to date, all the large landowners have refused to consider it, mostly for fear that if they open their fields, sludge haulers will begin to bring in loads from other towns. The haulers pay between $50 and $90 a load to the landowner.

Oxford Bank considers branch in West Paris

The Oxford Bank, with main office in Oxford and branches in Mechanic Falls and Westbrook, is considering establishing a branch in West Paris.

The bank's executive vice president, Ed Dilworth, was invited to a meeting of about two dozen concerned West Paris residents Monday night to sound him out on whether his bank might be interested in establishing a branch in the town after the Bethel Savings Bank closes its branch.

He told the group that he would first need to know what sort of services the town wanted. Then he would take up the matter with his board. "Once we get the information we'll give it consideration," he told The Citizen. "We were pleased we were invited," he added.

He said he expects to have a definite answer for the town in 30 to 45 days. "It has to be good for the town and for the bank, otherwise it doesn't make sense," he said.

Meanwhile, a committee has been formed to describe for the Oxford Bank exactly what services the town requires of a local branch. The committee is chaired by Sayward Lamb. Other members are Gwen Ellingwood, Judy McLaughlin, and Maurice and Cecile Lescault. The group will meet next Tuesday, at 7 p.m., in the town office to discuss the matter.

The Bethel Savings Bank branch is moving to South Paris—a move that is expected to take place in April. Bank officials have said the move is necessary in order to better serve the entire Oxford Hills.

Dolliver appointed as Newry constable

The Newry Board of Selectmen, after interviewing Bill Dolliver, appointed him as town constable yesterday.

The appointment was requested by Sunday River Skiway Corp.—Mr. Dolliver's employer—in order that he might be able to attend the state police academy for training. He will be in charge of security at the skiway. Selectman Roger Hanscom administered the oath of office to Constable Dolliver—the town's first police officer.

Selectman Hanscom also swore in Bill Cranston and Ann Friedlander as members of the Planning Board.

Anyone desiring to represent the town at school board discussions on next year's budget should contact the town office. The selectmen have been invited by the superintendent of schools to take part in the school budget process.

Polls will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., at the town office, on election day, Nov. 4.

State ranks towns on hazardous salt piles

The state Department of Environmental Protection this week informed the towns of the state how safe or unsafe their sand/salt piles were. Among local towns, Woodstock had the worst rating, while West Paris and Andover had the best ratings.

The DEP is concerned with salt piles that are near water supplies—wells, aquifers, etc. The department rated the towns from 1 to 5, with a 1 being reserved for the towns whose sand/salt piles were the most hazardous to the health of their communities. Woodstock's salt pile was rated a 3. West Paris and Andover received ratings of 5. Bethel and Greenwood received ratings of 4.

In Woodstock, selectmen have been worrying about their sand/salt pile for the past year. The state demands they put the pile in a shed, which would cost an estimated $80,000-$100,000.

MSAD #44 Directors' meeting

The board of directors of SAD #44 met in regular session at the Woodstock Elementary School on Monday evening of this week.

The directors granted initial (first reading) approval to an extensive list of minor revisions to the board's policy manual.

Any decision on the implementation of the 1986-87 school board goals was tabled until the Oct. 27 session of the directors.

The following resignations were accepted by the board: Mrs. Louise Chapman as middle school assistant girls basketball coach, effective immediately; and Mrs. Helen Berry, Telstar English teacher, effective at the end of the 1987-88 school year.

The directors authorized the superintendent and the board chairman to complete such procedures as are necessary for the approval of the final bond documents from the Maine Municipal Bond Bank.

Following an executive session, the board approved the following transfers of instructional personnel at Woodstock Elementary School, all for the remainder of the current school year: Wanda Johnson, composite room instructional aide, to grade 1 instructional aide; Joan Parker, grade 1 teacher, to the composite room; Shirley Seames, chapter 1 teacher,

Innkeepers assemble in Bethel Oct. 19-21

The Bethel Inn & Country Club will host the Maine Innkeepers Association's annual meeting Oct. 19th through the 21st.

The M.I.A., representing Maine's finest hotels, motels and inns, is organized to improve business conditions and promote the lodging industry throughout the state.

Nearly 30 properties and 25 allied exhibitors will attend this year's convention featuring business meetings, cracker barrel sessions, guest speakers, and a variety of recreational activities.

The Innkeepers, who last gathered in the Bethel area in October of 1979, will utilize the Bethel Inn's new Conference Center, enjoy a chicken barbecue atop the Sunday River Skiway and a canoe trip on Songo Pond. Attending members will be lodged in a number of local establishments using the Bethel Inn as convention headquarters.

Lecturers and open discussions will address "Substance Abuse," how to recognize it and respond, and "The Human Approach," how to inter-relate with employer-employee relationships. A representative of the American Hotel/Motel Association will speak and bring the Innkeepers up to date with the hospitality industry on the national level and what can be expected at the local level. In addition, the four candidates for governor have been invited to appear on the program to share ideas concerning promotion and development of the industry in the state of Maine.

Defer police question; pass Plan

At tomorrow night's special town meeting in Bethel, voters will be asked if they want to increase the police budget by $22,000 for the remainder of this fiscal year. They will also be asked if they want to adopt the revised Comprehensive Plan.

At last June's annual Town Meeting, voters approved a police budget of $30,000, up from $28,000 the year before. In addition, they set aside $5,000 towards a replacement cruiser. Also, they allocated thousands of dollars more to pay for workers' comp, unemployment, health benefits, social security, etc., for town workers, including the police.

At this late date to contend that the allocations for police protection were short by $22,000 is to contend that the entire budget process was flawed. That process saw each department draw up its budget and discuss it with the town manager, who then formulated a proposal for the selectmen, who then amended it according to their judgment and passed it on to the Budget Committee. Those officials then went over it carefully—adding or subtracting where they thought adding or subtracting was necessary—and returned it to the selectmen, who went along with the document as revised by the budgeteers.

This is the way a budget should be worked up. To allocate additional funds in the middle of a budget year for a department—unless that department has had extraordinary expenses—means rendering the budget process meaningless.

It may be, as some contend, that the town needs more police protection. But this question should be fully examined in next spring's budget-making process. Not now. The matter should be deferred until that time.

As for the matter of the revised Comprehensive Plan, voters should thank the Planning Board members, past and present, for their years of hard work in updating and giving new direction to the plan. The plan should be approved.

A note from the publisher

You probably read or heard last week that CBS-TV anchorman Dan Rather was beaten and kicked by two men along Park Avenue, in New York City.

His assailants were well-dressed, but that didn't stop them from punching him and kicking him and chasing him into an apartment building, where a doorman came to his assistance.

His assailants, as they maled him, kept asking him, "Kenneth, what is the frequency?"

He, of course, had no answer. In fact he told them, "I don't know what you're talking about."

It reminded me of the U.S. News & World Report correspondent, Nick Daniloff, who had just been released from prison in Moscow as part of a "spy" swap and prude to this past weekend's mini-summit in Iceland. Had his interrogators also asked him something equally inane? Maybe, "Kenneth, what is the length of a rugby field?"

Of course, if people hammer away at you long enough—with their fists and feet or just with stinging questions—you begin to have doubts about yourself and your innocence.

Even among the American populace, which originally was outraged by Mr. Daniloff's arrest, the longer the inquisition went on, the more doubt crept into our collective mind that, yes, maybe he did do some spying for CIA officials at the U.S. Embassy.

It's pretty easy for a journalist to be taken for a spy. We go around asking a lot of people a lot of questions. We take pictures. We show up at demonstrations and wars. We sift through documents.

We do pretty much the sort of things professional spies do—except we don't do it for the purpose of furthering a political program or defeating a political program, and we don't pay our sources. Well, aside from TV networks, most of us don't pay our sources.

The journalist and the diplomat and the spy all deal with one commodity—information—and that's why the three types mix so easily and so commonly.

I remember when I was in the Philippines, one of my regular sources for information on the Muslim insurrection in the southern part of the country was the Egyptian ambassador in Manila. His country had excellent formal and informal contacts with the Muslim Filipinos, and his government kept close tabs on the Libyans, who help fund the Muslim Filipino rebels.

Whenever I would call on him, he would graciously take time from whatever he was doing and he would always say, "Well, my friend, what is the situation in the south?"

And then we would horse-trade. I would tell him some—but not all—of what I had seen or heard, and he would tell me some—and I'm sure not all—of what he knew.

One doesn't have to be a journalist or a diplomat or a spy to swap information. We all do it whenever we meet on the street or sit down together for a cup of coffee. The expression "What's new?" really means "What's the news?" But it's only journalists (and spies) that get into trouble for asking "What's new?"

While I was in the Philippines, I was put on trial for fomenting rebellion. As evidence against me, the martial law government of then-President Ferdinand Marcos presented a few dozen of my stories—everything from stories about prostitution, to stories about the insurrection in the south, to stories about Marcos crimes and the ways they skimmed government funds and exacted kickbacks from suppliers. The prosecutors also presented photos of me taken at anti-Marcos and anti-U.S. demonstrations. And then there were government intelligence agents to swear that I had met with unnamed communists at places I had never been to.

The charges were ludicrous, but that didn't matter. They were trumpeted in the government-controlled press as gospel, and the government was all set to expel me, when the Jimmy Carter administration intervened.

Human rights was a cornerstone of the Carter foreign policy, and my case was a good one for the Carter administration to use to show Marcos they meant business. An assistant secretary of state came to Manila and spoke with Marcos officials; my case was recessed; and a few months later the trial came back into session and I was pronounced innocent of the charges.

I was not so lucky in South Korea. There, after writing a number of articles that angered the government, I was simply picked up by Korean CIA agents one afternoon and taken to a cheap hotel near Seoul's Kimpo International Airport. Two agents stayed awake in a room with me overnight, and in the morning I was put on a plane for Osaka, Japan. I was not allowed to make any phonecalls during my time under arrest.

The Korean government had apparently advised the Japanese authorities that there was a deportee on the plane,

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I urge all our friends and neighbors to attend the Special Town Meeting to be held on Thursday, Oct. 16, at 7 p.m., at Telstar Regional High School auditorium and to vote "Yes" on Article 3 of the warrant, to increase police protection in Bethel.

Right now the Bethel Police Department only works from 5 p.m. daily for an eight-hour shift. For the remainder of the 16 hours of each day, there is no police protection by the Bethel Police Department. As a result, if a crime is committed in Bethel during that time, no local policeman can come to the aid of the victim and apprehend the criminal.

Perhaps some of you are not aware that there has been an increase in criminal activity in Bethel, particularly in the village. Many of your friends and neighbors have been victims of crimes, particularly in the early morning hours, yet the perpetrators remain free because there is no Bethel policeman on duty because of lack of funds. There have been attempted break-ins, thefts, vandalism and destruction of personal property.

It is time that we do something about the situation. I therefore urge you to vote "Yes" for Article 3 on the warrant, which will appropriate an additional $22,000 for police protection and authorize the selectmen to add additional police when and where needed.

To the Editor:

Tourism and recreational expenditures accounted for $1.24 billion in revenues in Maine industries in 1984, provided 57,600 jobs in Maine, and generated well over $100,000,000 in tax revenues. These facts, as outlined by John McKernan, show tourism and recreation to be Maine's second-largest industry and the largest sales tax revenue producer in the state.

Candidate McKernan's position favoring the promotion of Maine's second-largest industry is the first time any political candidate has proposed a spending program which will generate significant tax revenue increases without raising tax rates. The promotion and selling of this tax-generating industry needs to be managed and marketed as any other multi-million dollar corporation.

Maine's mountains, lakes and coastlines are why many of us have chosen to live here and the reason others visit Maine. It should be the common denominator to position and promote the entire state of Maine. The best of all New England lies within Maine. We need to make a competitive invitation to our potential customers to use these tourist and recreation facilities to produce jobs and tax revenues and lessen the burden on the Maine taxpayer. Our tourists help to fund the educational and social service because as soon as we landed, Japanese officials came and escorted me to the Customs and Immigration office to see what sort of terrible criminal was coming into their country.

The first question they asked was: why had I been deported. I began with what I thought would be a prologue: "I'm a journalist." "I began. Without letting me continue, they said, 'Oh, we understand that.' And that was that. Except I have never been able to return to Korea.

Just as Nick Daniloff will probably never be allowed to return to Russia—because he's a journalist—in this case one who was made an unwitting pawn in a super-power game.

I asked Ted Chadbourne, who had recently spent two weeks touring Russia with his wife Kay, whether he thought Daniloff would be freed. He said he thought he would be. And, he added, he didn't believe Daniloff was a spy.

Neither do I.

To the Editor:

This Thursday (Oct. 16) the citizens of Bethel will have the opportunity to vote on a measure to increase our present eight-hour-a-day police coverage.

We began our petition aware of the selectmen's opposition to increased coverage. When we first spoke with the town manager, Rodney Lynch, he suggested that we talk with our police officers about the citizens' concerns, the increased hours needed, and the amount of money necessary to implement these changes. Within an hour of our talk, Mr. Lynch called to say we were not to speak to the officers and he would inform them of the "gag" decree as well.

To compensate for the police ban we looked to a number of sources for information. We spoke with state officials, the state police, the sheriff, other communities with the same size population, and through the town's various rules and regulations. We looked into other resources that were available locally. After filing the petition we learned that information from the town office outlining benefits provided to employees was outdated.

The intent of the petition is: increase the hours of our present officers. Mr. Lynch insists on interpreting the petition as though men will be hired for the additional hours. Provision was made for uniforms in June's budget and doesn't need to be duplicated in the present proposal.

Both the selectmen and the Budget Committee are adamantly opposed to purchase of a radar gun. In Mr. Lynch's view for Maine citizens, without requiring the use of these services themselves.

Tourism and recreation is a year-round, diversified and clean industry. It puts smiles on people's faces and paychecks in their pockets. It creates new jobs and it doesn't pollute.

Maine receives tourist and recreation-related sales tax revenues from an industry made up of over 1,500 small businesses. The $100 million income the state of Maine receives is significantly larger than any of the other businesses from which it collects tax revenues.

Currently the Maine Division of Tourism is trying to promote its industry with a budget that is too small to make an impact on the market. The entire state promotional budget was less than one-half of 1 percent of the $100 million generated in taxes in 1985. It is appropriate to note that most industries budget between 3 and 8 percent of their revenues for promotional purposes. A budget of three to eight million dollars would be a more appropriate total of expected revenues. The dollars currently being funded and the extent of current programs are insufficient for the task at hand. We need to invest to produce increasing tax revenues for the state.

Properly spent, those dollars would generate sales tax revenues significantly greater than the expenditure. Elevating the status of the Division of Tourism within a cabinet level office of Economic Development to provide coordination with public and private sectors can make our promotion more cost-effective and more efficient.

It all makes logical business sense and John McKernan's policy statement on Tourism and Recreation is one we should endorse for the future of Maine.

To the Editor:

The letter published in The Citizen on Oct. 1 should awaken us to the fact that things are happening very fast in Bethel. As citizens we need to be alert to the changes taking place. None of us may be against development; but let's make sure it doesn't happen faster than our present facilities and services can handle it.

Please be aware that the Planning Board has been presented with plans for approximately 100 new living units to be constructed right here within the village. Rumor has it that more are on the drawing board. Plans presented at this time are as follows: 52 units—Eden Ridge; 8 units—Bethel Carriage House (accepted); 40 units—The Bethel Inn.

As concerned citizens we need to look beyond anticipated revenues from taxes: we need, first, to insure that our current public services can deal with this influx. Think of the burden the construction and inhabitation of 100 new units will put on our already overworked police department, fire department, sewer system, water supply, ambulance service, road maintenance and school system.

Please be aware that these developments are not in the hazy future. They are happening now!

The Eden Ridge developers have had their preliminary plans accepted by the Planning Board, and will be making a presentation to the selectmen on Monday, Oct. 20. A public hearing prior to final acceptance will be held by the Planning Board on Thursday, Oct. 22, at Telstar. We encourage you to be present at these meetings to better understand what impact this will have on you.

Bill and Meg Cousins

proposal of what $22,000 could provide in added police protection, the radar gun was absent. It was referred to as a "toy" by a member of the Budget Committee. In 1985 there were 156 fatalities on Maine's highways. Sixty-eight involved excessive speed. Speed was involved in approximately 2,215 accidents with minor injuries, and 2,715 where there was damage to only the car.

The state police and the sheriff's department do not routinely patrol Routes 2 and 26 within Bethel's town limits. They come in at the request of the chief of police. A deputy is not assigned to a specific area unless a town has a contract with the county. A deputy can work eight hours a day, 40 hours per week, and the cost is $10.95 per hour. Our officers receive $5.91 per hour.

With the expansion at Sunday River Skiway and Mt. Abram we can expect increased traffic in the winter as well as the summer in the future and specifically on weekends. A number of units are being constructed in Bethel as well.

In recent months there has been an increase in vandalism: slashed tires, smashed car windows and the shooting of windows of local businesses. There have been instances of prowlers around the houses and banging on the window of elderly citizens. Houses have been broken into, logging equipment stolen, and car-racing on Bethel streets. These are some of the reasons why increased coverage is needed.

With each week that passes, Mr. Lynch adds something else that will raise the cost of our petition. We are waiting with interest to see how much it will cost on Thursday. We hope that citizens will come to the town meeting to vote and to hear our proposal.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to frequently bring to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

I offer the following meditation inspired by Psalm 139. Prayer Group members who have found these words useful in private, family or group devotions suggest that when read aloud daily for one week, eyes have brightened, hearts have lightened, and the joys of living have become ever more real.

There's not a spot where God is not!
As I awaken to a new day of challenges and opportunities, I declare...

There's not a spot where God is not!
And as I stretch and scan my body, recognizing it as the house in which my soul resides, I affirm...

There's not a spot where God is not!
Looking out my window, taking in whatever I see precisely as it is, with nothing added or subtracted, I say...

There's not a spot where God is not!
And turning inward, through the window of my being with its current longings and stirrings, recollections of old hurts or mellow memories of delights, and whatever fears or hopes for the future may be there, I see that...

There's not a spot where God is not!
As I lift up all my relationships, just as they are—broken or breaking, mended or mending—and with a faith-filled spirit state...

There's not a spot where God is not!
And through every circumstance that shows up in my life and world, at home, at work, at school, in ease or disease, harmony or discord, peace or war, plenty or want, waking or sleeping, I know that...

There's not a spot where God is not!
As you experience the fruits of this spiritual exercise, share them with someone you care about or wish to care about. You will discover a spiritual friend.

Waterford man seeks District 49 House seat

Tom Winsor, a 42-year-old real estate agency owner from Waterford, is the Republican candidate for the District 49 House seat in the state Legislature. The district encompasses Bethel, Byron, Gilead, Hanover, Lincoln Plantation, Lovell, Magalloway Plantation, Newry, Upton, Waterford, Avon, Rangeley, Rangeley Plantation, Sandy River Plantation, Weld, and the townships of Western Franklin and Oxford counties. The seat is currently held by Jeff Mills, of Bethel—a Democrat.

Mr. Winsor says he would make the better choice for District 49 voters because he would not have, what he sees as, the anti-business attitude common in the Legislature. "I'm a free enterpriser," he says.

"We (in Maine) send mixed signals (to business). We have to temper state policies with realizations of what the other states are doing."

A better business climate must be fostered in the state so that businesses will build, or expand, he says. "You have to have jobs so people can pay taxes so you can offer government services."

The workers' comp legislation, which was amended a year-and-a-half ago, should be further changed to lower the costs to business, Mr. Winsor says. "Workers comp should basically be a system of compensating workers injured on the job, without suing the employer. If you lose a hand you get so much..."

Rates for coverage should be set by competition instead of by government, he says, and the payments to injured workers should be set so that workers are compensated and not enriched. Payments should be made quickly after an injury, so that the worker has no break in his or her income, and rehabilitation programs should be improved so the worker can get back to work faster, Mr. Winsor says.

Mr. Winsor faults the Democrat-controlled Legislature for keeping workers' comp costs high, as well as generally helping foster an anti-business atmosphere in the state. He says Democrat incumbent Jeff Mills has not worked to change this atmosphere. "Jeff's votes have been along party lines," says the challenger.

He particularly faults Rep. Mills for voting in favor of teacher bonuses without providing for sufficient funding to the school districts to pay for the increased salaries years down the line. "I wouldn't vote for a program unless I had the courage to vote for funding for it."

Mr. Winsor says the state should be doing more to financially help municipalities and school districts. This could very likely be done without any increase in taxes, he says. "I'm not convinced we need a tax increase. We pay more taxes than 39 other states, compared to our income. It's going up there (to Augusta) and it ain't coming back. Do we need more money (in the state treasury) or just re-allocate what we have?"

He also suggests that state financial aid, such as for schools, should not be done by looking solely at the property valuation of the community. For example, he points out, if out-of-state people come into a community and bid up the property values, valuation goes up and state support declines. But it is the local people—who bought their homes while property values were lower—who must then pay more to support their schools.

While Mr. Winsor has been a director of the Oxford Hills Chamber of Commerce and a member of the SAD #17 board of directors, this campaign marks the first time he has run for a state office. (He did, however, hold an appointive position, under Porter Leighton, as real property disposal division chief of the U.S. government's General Services Administration.)

PUBLIC AMERICANISM PROGRAM

The Junior Auxiliary of Jackson-Silver Unit #68, American Legion Auxiliary, of Locke Mills, presented their Annual Americanism Program on the "American Creed" Sunday afternoon, Oct. 5, at their hall in Locke Mills.

Music Chairman Mary Lyon organized the program that featured a "College of the United States," with musical highlights from sections of the U.S.A. Last year Mrs. Lyon won the State Americanism Award, and Music Award. She presented each participant with a small memento from her recent trip to Alaska. Assisting Mrs. Lyon were Past Presidents Sylvia Dunham and Cathryn Lovejoy.

Special guests were Jeanne Watson, State Music Chairman of Bethel, and Legionnaire Peter Watson, and Helen Audet, State Children and Youth Chairman.

Commander Earl Colby and President Leah Deegan welcomed the guests.

The girls participating were Kelly Bartlett, Allison Bartlett, Shelly Swan, Angela Lovejoy, and the four Patten sisters, Lee Ann, Lori, May Lyn, and Amy. The girls wore blue skirts, white blouses and red ties.

Refreshments of finger rolls, brownies, chips and dip, punch, cider and apples, were served at the close of the ceremony.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The board of directors met yesterday, at 7:30 a.m., at the Casco Northern Bank.

The directors hope to relocate the information sign removed from in front of the Gem Shop to a new location in Greenwood.

Membership in the chamber is now almost 100, the executive director reported.

The directors thanked all those who volunteered to attend the Big E expo in Springfield, Mass., in order to publicize the Bethel area. The effort was a big success, even though the chamber didn't make as much money selling "weatherticks" as it had hoped.

The directors hope everyone will take heed of the "shop local" campaign being conducted by the chamber. Shopping locally helps everyone in the area.

Paula Berry is getting started with Western Mountains Winter Wonderland Week. The balloonists will be back again, she reported. They will require champagne, propane and lodging. The skiway will supply the first two, but innkeepers and private homeowners are being asked to volunteer boarding space in order to have these colorful pilots and their colorful balloons in town. Call Ms. Berry, at the skiway, if you can assist.

Executive Director Robin Zinchuk and Sunday River Skiway Corp. Marketing Director Wendy Gray last week attended a meeting in Rangeley hosted by American Express. Amex said they will be willing to assist Saddleback, Sugarloaf and Sunday River with $5,000 free advertising for each if the areas will do $1 million of card business. If the ski areas can do that much Amex business, the card company will also reduce its percentage fee by 1/2 percent to area merchants.

Anyone with ideas on how the chamber can help the area celebrate Christmas should call the chamber office.

Peter King, of the Maine Lung Association, presented a slide show on the bikeathon of last spring. He also presented Les Otten with a plaque in appreciation for the skiway helping the event with logistic support.

Joan Scaro suggested that all chamber members attend Thursday night's special town meeting in Bethel, where the questions will be whether to allocate additional funds for the Police Department and whether to approve the revised Comprehensive Plan.

Some of the directors are in Rotary, and because Rotary has changed its weekly meeting from Tuesday noon to Tuesday morning, the board voted to change the chamber meeting from the second Tuesday of the month to the second Thursday. The next meeting will be Nov. 13, 7:30 a.m., at the Casco Northern Bank. All are welcome to participate.

term substitute (for the balance of the 1986-87 school year) in the vacated chapter 1 position at the Woodstock Elementary School.

The directors also approved the creation of the position of part-time speech clinician for the remainder of the current school year, and authorized the posting of a vacancy in the position.

Early in the meeting the directors heard a presentation by Dr. James Doughty and Dr. John Skeehan regarding the procedures of the UMO Parent Attitude Survey. Such a survey is part of the SAD #44 School Improvement Plan. Also Louise Chapman and Rodney Abbott of the Telstar faculty made a presentation to the board regarding an "Overview of The Chemical Dependency Prevention Curriculum."

The following members of the board were not present Monday evening: Cheryl Elliot, Bethel; and Eva C. Twitchell and Sheryl Wilbur of Woodstock.

The SAD #44 Board of Directors is next to meet in regular session at Telstar Regional High School on Monday evening, Oct. 27, at 7:30.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a description of an old-time blacksmith's shop—

"A low stone wall surrounded a yard inches deep in mud, with an accumulation of old metal, bits of rusty ploughs and broken cart shafts littered around it. Behind that was the shop open to the yard, with its central stone post for tethering horses, its forge, its pump emptying into a water barrel, its anvil and its wide chimney. Horse dung was everywhere. Backing on the shop was the coltage, with a narrow earth-floored kitchen and two steps up to a tiny wood-floored parlour with a ladder leading to two bedrooms in the roof above."

Had intended to get this news into the mail yesterday but was sick from an allergic reaction to some medicine. No fun at all. I will hope this gets there soon enough to get into the paper. Weather looks better than it did yesterday. A rainy day yesterday but looks as though the sun might come out today and shine.

Russell and I, both, have had to have work done on our vehicles. I went to get an oil change and grease job and they found other things that needed tending to so had to go back and get it fixed. I would hate to go off on the road and have a belt break or something like that. Decided it would be better to spend the money now and be sure the car was all right.

Russell and I did a job on our humidifiers last Sunday. They are clean and ready to be used now. It is amazing how dirty they get and in such a short time.

Monday started out rainy and was windy. Went to see my doctor in North Bridgton. Needed a treatment and something for a sore throat. It was Grange night at Franklin Grange but neither of us felt like getting out so were terrible and stayed home.

Tuesday was my day for going to Lewiston and getting new lenses put in my glasses frames. What a change! The pictures on the TV don't blur all the time now, and that seems good. While in Lewiston, we went to visit my daughter for a short time and ended up having lunch with her. Didn't accomplish too much but that was all right. Wednesday was the coldest morning here so far. It was down to 28 degrees. Makes me shiver to think of what is coming. I tried to do a little sewing and in the afternoon, our good friend, Verna Swan of Bryant Pond stopped to visit a few minutes. Always glad to see her.

Got a call Thursday morning from my son-in-law that he had taken my daughter to the hospital and wanted me to take care of the little girls for him. I was sick, too, but told them to bring them up just the same. No one else to take them and without Mom around, Nana had to do what she could, which was very little. I'm afraid Russell did most of the work yesterday. He cooked and did the dishes and went to town for me. We have to help one another when we can.

How fast the leaves are dropping from the trees. The rain and wind the other day, did a job on the big maple in Lawrence's yard. Not too many leaves left on the tree now. Driving along the highways, one can sure notice the difference with so many trees bare. It takes such a short time for the beautiful colored leaves of autumn to fall from the trees and leave them bare.

Got a few announcements from West Paris Grange. On Oct. 25, there will be a benefit supper at the Grange Hall from 5:30 to 7. The community is putting on the supper to benefit Tom Elliott.

NEW AT GOULD — Will Talpey has joined the Gould Academy faculty as a member of the French department. A graduate of the Harley School in Rochester, N.Y., he holds a B.S. degree in comparative religion from Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio. During his education at Kenyon he taught first and second year French to students in the intensive language model. He also has tutored French while working in the business world prior to joining the Gould faculty. Mr. Talpey also coaches J.V. soccer at Gould and serves as a dormitory master at Holden Hall.

On Nov. 1, there will be a "what-not, craft and food sale" at West Paris Grange Hall. The hours will be from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Lots of good food for sale as usual and if anyone wants to have a table to sell crafts, get in touch with Mary Lovejoy. She said the price would be small for a good space to show and sell your articles.

Another dance will be held at West Paris Grange Hall on Nov. 8. These chemical free dances have been good and have helped the Grange to reach their goal of getting the chair lift etc. I was told the new stairs have been built and they expect to get the chair at any time. I think it is great and the Grangers have really done a superb job of raising the money to get this done. It has taken a lot of work on their part to tie up the papers and deliver them. Also, the dances and food sales have brought in a good amount for them. They have done a great job in the time they have been working on it and should be applauded for the good work. There will be many who will find it a lot easier to get upstairs once the chair is in place, which could be any time soon.

Got to go see what the girls are doing. It has been quite a chore for me to type this morning. Thank the Lord I feel better than yesterday but still feel like an old wrung-out dish cloth. Hope to hear that Wynona is better today, also. It is hard on little folks when Mom is in the hospital so hope she gets out soon.

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

Our beautiful colored foliage is almost a thing of the past. As I sit by the window I see the leaves falling off and hurrying across the road to places unknown. I wonder why they are in such a hurry to get away. It is like the traffic on our new road, each motorist is hurrying and cannot stand it until he passes the car or cars ahead. Life is traveling too fast all ways.

Joe Vatcher picked the last mess of green peas on Oct. 3 and they were as good as the first mess. His tomato crop was terrible, a dozen tomatoes as hard as rocks unable to ripen before they rotted so he and Eveline went down the line Monday and picked a bushel of ripe tomatoes and a peck of beautiful green peppers for only $7. Right now Eveline has had her fill of ripe tomatoes. They will taste better later.

Callers at Lawrences: Joe Kalinowski, Roberta Isley, Joe Vatcher and Cornie, Mr. and Mrs. Roger LaCroix, Stevie Millett, Arnold Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Card.

Joe Vatcher took Cornie and Dannie McAlliff to see their mother at St. Mary's Hospital at Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Abbott were tendered a wedding reception at the Community Hall, Oct. 4.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Ada Balentine of Bethel and Woodstock.

James Everett is recuperating from a broken ankle and expects to be in a cast for several more weeks.

Ladies Chapel Aid of the West Bethel Union Church met at the church Wednesday night, Oct. 8, and made plans for their annual Christmas sale to be held on Saturday, Nov. 8.

Mary Head Butler of Union and daughter Lisa Reibel of Waldoboro visited with Mary's mother, Olive Head, for the day recently.

Jonathan and Rowena Stowell and children, Melanie and Nathan, of Shirley, Mass., spent the long Columbus Day weekend with her parents, the Arthur Gilberts.

Andrew and Marlene Stowell of Jackman were guests of his parents on this past weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lewis Sr., of Binghamton, N.Y., spent a few days with their son and family over Columbus Day.

Courtney woke Kariann and I up this morning and baby is tired as she had gas last night and couldn't get to sleep, either. Take care folks and the best to all.

A Perfect View of Fall

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The 1986 Bethel Historical Society Endowment Campaign has now passed the $6,000 level toward reaching the $8,500 goal by the end of the year. Most recent donors include Dr. Richard and Catherine Lyon Bush, Belmont, Mass.; Donald and Dorothy Christie, Gray; Edna M. York, Bethel, in memory of Herbert I. and Maude Bean; Richard and Virginia Williamson, Upton, in memory of Esther Williamson. Much gratitude is extended to these members and friends for their generous support. To date 276 individuals and businesses have supported this campaign to assist the society in ensuring that as much of the local past as possible is preserved for future generations.

Total membership in the society is now 680, only 20 short of this year's membership goal of 700. Anyone requesting information on becoming a member of the Bethel Historical Society should call the society office at 824-2908. Among those joining the society in recent weeks are Dorothy H. Fortier, Falmouth; Ruth Silver, Bethel; Kathleen S. Bean, Bryant Pond; Nathaniel True Bartholomai, LaGrangeville, N.Y.; Richard and Carole Duplessis, Bethel; Lynn M. Boschetti, Swampscott, Mass.

Society life member E.M. Quinn has presented the archives with a book by Philip Hastings, Grand Trunk Railroad: Steam in New England. The society has also acquired a copy of Richard E. Pinette's Northwoods Echoes. Both volumes are available to researchers in the society's Ena Bean Research Room.

There was a good attendance Oct. 4 and 5 during the society's annual Homecoming Weekend. There were quite a few autumn foliage visitors as well as several Gould Academy alumni visiting the Dr. Moses Mason House to hear Society Director Stanley R. Howe's slide presentation on the academy's 150 years. Assisting this year with autumn decorations and harvest items were Helen Morton, Margaret Joy Tibbets, Barbara H. Brown, Gertrude Hutchins, and Sudie Vachon. Guides this year were Helen Morton and Millie Thomas. Helen Morton also displayed a number of her paintings in the meeting room. Much gratitude is expressed to those individuals for making Homecoming '86 such a success.

REIBEL - BUTLER

On June 28 at one o'clock Lisa Marie Butler and Michael Raymond Reibel were united in marriage at the People's United Methodist Church in Union by the Rev. Robert Sammons.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Butler of Union, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Olive Head of West Bethel. She is a 1985 graduate of Medomak Valley High School and an 1986 alumna of Central Beauty School in Augusta. She is now working at Natural Part, Waldoboro.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Reibel of Waldoboro. He also is an 1985 graduate of M.V.H.S. and is employed at Crowe Braid of Warren.

The church was decorated by Mrs. Phyllis Waisanen of Golden Glow Florist of Union with an altar arrangement of lilies, pink roses and carnations with poms and a memory candle at the side of the altar encircled with greens and coordinating flowers. Fresh flowers, greens and streamers marked the family pews.

Special music was provided by Bonny Martin, who sang "Sunrise, Sunset" from Fiddler on the Roof, accompanied by Isabella Samuelson. Dorothy Mitchell sang "If" by David Gates with Ben Foster accompanying.

The bride was escorted down the aisle through an ivy covered archway decorated with pink, lavender, and white flowers, by her father. She wore a silk chiffon over taffeta gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, low basque waistline and a cathedral train. Her veiling was attached to a Juliet cap trimmed with Nottingham lace and pearls. She carried her mother's wedding Bible adorned with white lilies, pink alstroemeria, stephanotis, mini carnations, ivy and variegated greenery with touches of pink and white satin streamer ribbons.

Theresa Blodgett, maid of honor, wore a lavender gown and carried a cascading bouquet of white lilies, alstroemeria, stephanotis and ivy with touches of lavender.

The bridesmaids were Jane Head (cousin of the bride), Victoria Haskins, Valerie Podrasky (sister of the groom), and Kim Eikelberger. Their dresses were styled as the maid of honor's but in pink and their bouquets matched Miss Blodgett's but with touches of pink.

Robert Lallier served as best man. The bride's brother, Matthew Butler, and Joe Knight were ushers. Their tuxedos with matching cummerbunds were light blue and their boutonnières were pink and white.

Jennifer Podrasky, the groom's niece, attended as flower girl, and her brother, Robert Podrasky, was ring bearer. He carried a ring pillow made by Sheila

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Sixth grade teacher William Koch has been appointed teaching principal of the Agnes Gray and Legion Memorial Schools. Walter Litchfield has resigned from the role of principal, but will continue to teach grade four. Faculty and staff have a deep appreciation for the many years of leadership, consideration and support he has given us.

Mr. Koch has been part of the faculty almost as long as Mr. Litchfield and we, in turn, will be supporting him in his newest undertaking.

The first meeting of the volunteer support group will be held at the Agnes Gray School library on Thursday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. The faculty will be introduced, goals for the program and school policy will be discussed.

One of our goals for this year is to improve our playground. Old equipment, like our slippery slide, has been dismantled due to its poor condition. Sand has been brought in—under swings and rocky playing fields. Mr. Koch has asked for one batch of sand to be placed at one corner of the building for a prospective sand box. What a delightful treat for boys and girls. Playing cars and trucks in the sand may be a simple pastime, but some of the things from the "good old days" really are good.

Other news this week includes preparations for Halloween and lots of science activities.

Grade One is growing lima beans on their window sills. They've been studying plants and have brought in fruits and vegetables and talked about how they grew. October decorations done by the first grade artists are on display all over the room.

Grade two artists have a three-dimensional bulletin board display called the Spook House. It can be found on the bulletin board in the downstairs hall.

Grade three had a contest to write the best sentence about October. The sentences were then illustrated and the one judged best was chosen to be displayed next to the October calendar. —Congratulations, Erin Small!

Science activities for grade three include home made terrariums which are on display and growing at the science table.

Grade four has been studying erosion. Experiments showing the affect of water on land have been taking place indoors and out.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE DAVIS

Ellsworth Hathaway spent a week in the Norway hospital while he had surgery performed. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Niro, daughter Michelle and son Dana, spent the weekend with Mrs. Joyce Hathaway. Karen Hathaway was home from Plymouth State College over the weekend.

Esther Davis has spent some time with Olive Davis, who is nursing a bad eye. She took her to the doctor twice last week.

Did anyone around here see the eclipse? It was cloudy so not visible, which maybe was just as well because of the affect on the eyes if anyone looked at it.

The Zeta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Association met with Lettie Brooks at their farm on Curtis Hill with 26 in attendance. The assisting hostesses were Lillian Curtis, Shirley Seames, and Dorothy Ross. After dinner a business meeting was held and the program was a "show and tell" on craft work the various ones had done. They also held a mystery package on food each had made. Each member brought a bag of food without seeing it for $2 to build their scholarship fund.

A report from Ellsworth Hathaway today was he is seriously ill and unable to come home Wednesday as expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, Olive Davis, Bertha Benoit, Richard Felt, Florence Gustafson, Kay Billings were at Franklin Grange from this way Monday and attended Youth Night.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks and Olive Davis were at Oxford Pomona at Pleasant Valley Tuesday night.

Several attended Fryeburg Fair from this area. They reported large crowds.

Grade five has tagged all the butterflies and is concluding the unit on vertebrates and invertebrates. An outdoor experiment, a census taken in an area one meter square, reinforced the fact that the invertebrates really do outnumber the vertebrates.

Grade six is conducting condensation and evaporation experiments for the unit on water and air. In social studies the islands of the Caribbean are being studied. Sixth graders have begun using the computer and word processing for creative writing, storing each story on their own disk.

OXFORD POMONA

Oxford Pomona Grange met with Pleasant Valley Grange, West Bethel, on Oct. 7. A bountiful supper was served to 58 members before the meeting, in buffet style.

Five degrees were conferred on nine candidates from New Century Pomona. Cards were sent to Lewis Woodworth and Evelyn Jackson. Ada Balentine's death was reported.

Notice of the State Lecturer's annual meeting on Oct. 11 at Augusta and State Grange at Portland Oct. 22 to 25 were reported. It was voted to send the Master and husband with expenses paid.

"Almost Made It" for monthly reports of the pomona. The reason it wasn't a 12 month report, there was no meeting in one month.

A resolution on Dump Site was taken up and approved. This resolution will go on to State Grange. One hundred eleventh anniversary of Oxford Pomona will be at Norway on Nov. 1. National and state officers will be present.

The program: address of welcome, Richard Hosterman, Master of Pleasant Valley Grange; response, Stanley Howe, Master of Oxford River Grange; mystery drawing for CWA was held, as well as the drawing for the raffle. Fern Bennett's name was drawn. She was absent.

The next regular meeting will be at Lakeside Grange on Nov. 4.

Safety Tip of the Week
Hunting season is fast approaching. A few tips may make the hunting season a safe one for everyone.

The hunter safety course is now a requirement for first time licenses. The new law makes sense. The course teaches practical survival skills the woods in addition to gun safety and range practice.

The fluorescent hunter orange is worn for a reason, to protect the hunter from other hunters. The animals are sensitive to human smells and won't stay around long enough to see what color you're wearing. Please don't get mistaken for a deer and be careful when sighting at a moving object that it really is the animal you want.

Local artists study at Port Clyde

Local artists, Romeo Baker and Jo Stevens of Sunday River Road, Newry, have just returned from a week-long workshop at Port Clyde, Maine. During the five day seminar they were instructed in all facets and fundamentals of water color by the well known and famous colorist Carlton Plummer, former illustrator, silkscreen artist, combat artist, and university painting professor. Mr. Plummer was born and raised in Maine. He belongs to many professional art organizations, including the prestigious American Watercolor Society and is the proud winner of over 80 national awards.

During the week of instruction, the local artists studied on location with 15 other artists from as far away as Indiana, Illinois, South Carolina and Louisiana. A local Grange hall was used for instruction during inclement weather and critique of finished and unfinished art work.

Prior to attending the workshop at Port Clyde, a five day art class was held at the Baker Art Gallery at Sunday River, Newry. Several local art students participated and were given an introduction to water color techniques and equipment. Beverly Hebbard, a well known artist from Barnwell, S.C., instructed the class.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary Club held its regular weekly meeting at a new time and place on Tuesday, Oct. 14. Regular meetings will be held at Martha's Restaurant beginning at 7 a.m. (coffee time) and convening at 7:30 for business. Member attendance percentages should dramatically increase with the time change.

Visiting Rotarians and guests joining with the group Tuesday were Gil Robinson, Wilmington, Del.; Bill Lowther, Boonton, N.J.; Ed Steward, Wakefield, R.I.; Francis Petrini, Sharon, Pa.; Allan Tumm, Augusta; Alan Murchin and Neal Allen, Portland.

Bruce Powell, the raffle specialist, did a great job—so early in the morning—the winner was Scott Dennis.

The program chairman was Scott Dennis. His guest speaker was H. Alan Timm, director, Maine State Lottery Commission. Mr. Timm talked about the revenue developed through the sale of tickets. He used graphs to illustrate the distribution of the profits within the state. Alan Murchin of the commission also talked about the various games offered, information on the strategy of buying tickets, etc. New games and programs are in the planning stage. It was an interesting program.

John Elliot discussed the pancake breakfast project. He has been busy coordinating with Dan Allen, manager of food services at Gould Academy, and he has made up work assignments for each Rotarian. Let's get behind this project as much as possible.

Plans for the Senior Citizens Christmas dinner and the Christmas baskets project are being finalized. More on this later.

In response to Shay's Rebellion and other indications that the Articles of Confederation were less than adequate to meet the needs of the new nation, it was decided to meet in Philadelphia to see what might be done to remedy the situation. Twelve of the 13 colonies sent delegates (Rhode Island refused to participate) and these delegates among whom were some of the new nation's most able men produced the document (after considerable debate) that will be 200 years old on Sept. 17, 1987. This session will deal with the nature of that famous gathering, its bickerings and compromises, its accommodations and omissions.
